About Boğaziçi University
Boğaziçi University (BU) was officially established as a state university in 1971, formerly known as Robert College, the first American college established outside of the U.S. in 1863. Therefore, the instruction language at BU is English. As an English-medium university, BU is the top university in Turkey with its well-rooted history and education, distinguished faculty members and top ranking students (in the top 1% out of over 2 million test takers) in the nationwide university entrance examination.

The faculty members at BU are a good mix of Turkish and foreign nationals who earned their master and doctoral degrees from top North American, European and Commonwealth universities and have a well-deserved academic reputation. BU’s high standards in education and research are also acknowledged worldwide and every year, a great number of its graduates get admitted to reputable Master and PhD programs of top overseas universities with full funding.

School of Foreign Languages

Boğaziçi has a nationwide reputation of foreign language education offered by the School of Foreign Languages (SFL) which houses three units: English Preparatory School, Modern Languages Unit and Advanced English Unit. English Preparatory School offers a one-year intensive English program to all incoming students who have not proven their English proficiency. Modern Languages Unit offers students of all majors foreign language education in eleven different languages: Armenian, Chinese, French, German, Greek, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Portuguese, English, Spanish. Advanced English Unit offers English reinforcement classes to freshmen who have passed the BUEPT with a minimum passing grade C in an A-BC ranking.

About English Preparatory School

With its distinguished faculty members who are language experts in their field, English Preparatory School provides English language training to all incoming students. While students develop both linguistic and cultural awareness throughout their language education, they also gain a genuine international perspective on cultural, political, social and global issues with their acquired English language skills. In brief, intensive English study enables our students to achieve a good command of English with complete mastery in four skills (reading, writing, listening, speaking), as well as understand the social and cultural characteristics of the countries in which English is spoken natively.

Boğaziçi University as the pioneer of English-medium instruction has a well-deserved reputation of English preparatory education in Turkey owing to its well-established English Preparatory School which prepares and administers its own English proficiency tests (BUEPT). Those who submit English proficiency with a standardized test (BUEPT, TOEFL or Academic IELTS) can start their major study, while those who can’t attend a one-year intensive English program to master academic English. English Preparatory School is a self-sufficient unit with a Testing Office (TO) preparing all progress, summative and proficiency tests, and a Curriculum Committee (CC) preparing the curricula of all four levels: Beginner, Pre-intermediate, Intermediate, Advanced. In line with our institutional goals, we would like to welcome all applicants who are energetic, flexible, hardworking, keeping up with educational technologies and ready to embrace socio-cultural differences in an enriching work environment such as BU School of Foreign Languages.

Job Requirements
